Nico Vassilakis is a visual and textual poet who was born in New York City in 1963. He has co-written and performed a one-man play about experimental composer Morton Feldman. Vassilakis is co-founder and curator for the Subtext Reading Series. His visual poetry videos have been shown worldwide at festivals and exhibitions of innovative language arts. He works for Fantagraphics Books and lives in Seattle with his son, Quixote. One of the most productive poets on the North American continent, his recent titles include Diptychs (2007) and his collected textual and visual poems Text Loses Time (2007), and the e-book Five Sequences (2008).
